

THE COOKIES POLICY OF THE WWW.ADP.PT WEBSITE (and its Microsites)

INTRODUCTION

This present Cookies Policy seeks to explain the usage of personal information collected whenever visiting the website www.adp.pt and the microsites <https://www.portaldaagua.pt/> and <https://jornadasadp.pt/> as well as those sites reporting the annual Águas de Portugal Group results.

AdP – Águas de Portugal, SGPS, S.A., with its headquarters at Rua Visconde de Seabra no. 3, 1700-103 Lisbon, with Corporate and Taxation Number 503 093 742, (“AdP” hereafter), operates the www.adp.pt website, acting as the Controller for the processing of the data handled within the scope of this Cookies Policy.

This Policy is not applicable to the websites of third parties that may be accessed through the contents and/or the connections made available on the AdP website, for example to social networks, and their respective utilisation may involve Cookies that do not belong to AdP.

Furthermore, this Policy does not regulate the data processing carried out by third parties on obtaining data through the Cookies installed. Such processing operations remain the responsibility of the third parties that gather the data.

This Policy should also be, whenever so necessary, complemented by consulting the legislation applicable to this field.

Users may, at any point in time, configure their Cookies related preferences in effect for the website through the options accessed through “Security, managing and blocking cookies”.

We would recall that some Cookies enable identification and, within this framework, the website may collect your personal data in keeping with your respective levels of permission. Hence, users should also read and be aware of the AdP Privacy Policy that clarifies and complements this Cookies Policy.

ABOUT COOKIES

Cookies constitute the small software labels that are stored in access devices through the browser and that retain information related to the preferences of users and with this information excluding any details that would identify individual users.

THE PURPOSE OF COOKIES

The Data Controller deploys Cookies to more easily endow utility, interest and increase the number of users of the website and the microsites and correspondingly enabling faster and more efficient navigation and eliminating any need to constantly reintroduce the same information as well as for maintaining the security and functionality of the website and the microsites, raising the performance and the experience for users, regulating the ways in which Cookies are collected, stored and used and the respective processing of the information gathered under the auspices of the current website and the aforementioned microsites.

The Cookies applied on the AdP website and its microsites ensure the anonymity of data and correspondingly do not allow for the identification of users.

TYPES OF COOKIES

The website and the microsites deploy various categories of cookies with each category reflecting a distinct purpose:

Essential or strictly necessary: Without these Cookies, it is not possible to ensure the basic functions of the website and the microsites and/or provide users with access to the functions they explicitly request. As such, these Cookies cannot be deactivated in our systems.

These essential Cookies, strictly necessary or technical in nature, help make the website and the microsites usable, activating basic functions, such as navigating on the website and the microsites, utilisation of the different options or services they provide as well as accessing the secured areas of the website and the microsites.

You may always configure your browser to block or warn you about these Cookies but this may impact on the smooth functioning of the website and the microsites.

Personalisation: The personalisation Cookies enable the provision of a personalised experience when navigating and accessing the functions that, while not strictly necessary, may deepen your interactions with the website and the microsites, storing information that changes both how the website and the microsites behave and their appearance to users, for example in terms of a preference for a particular language or the region the user is located in. Thus, the navigation experience not only undergoes an improvement but also become simpler and more personalised. The legal grounds for processing these personal details obtained through these preference Cookies stems from your consent.

Analytical: The analytical Cookies enable the monitoring and analysis of users of the website and the microsites and foster an understanding of how users interact, gathering and returning information anonymously.

Within this framework, we deploy the Google Analytics cookies, an online analysis service provided by Google LLC. (Google). You may obtain further information about the usage of Google Analytics cookies by clicking here. The acceptance of these Cookies implies your consent for the transfer of the data resulting to the United States, a country that does not provide an equivalent level of data protection as the European Union. The legal grounds for processing these personal details obtained through these analytical Cookies stems from your consent.

Marketing: The marketing Cookies serve for registering the visits by users to the various websites and microsities. The objective is to display advertising and publicity of relevance and interest to users and thereby more valuable to third party publishers and advertisers. The marketing Cookies include monitoring and behavioural Cookies. The monitoring Cookies are those that supervise how and when you visit our website and our microsities. The behavioural Cookies gather information on your navigation habits with the objective of providing more relevant adverts and enabling the sharing of pages on social networks. The acceptance of these Cookies implies your consent for the transfer of the data resulting to the United States, a country that does not provide an equivalent level of data protection as the European Union. The legal grounds for processing these personal details obtained through these marketing Cookies stems from your consent

ORIGINS OF COOKIES

Every Cookie contains the name of the associated domain and may be classified in terms of their origins according to the following categories:

- First party cookies: are Cookies managed and stored by the Data Controller and those sent to the devices of users in accordance with the respective device or domain, managed by the editor to provide the services requested by users;

- Third party cookies: are Cookies placed on the devices of users from a domain or device managed by third parties that have their contents or technological solutions integrated into the website and the microsites. In these cases, the third party entity may handle the data gathered through these Cookies and the Data Controller may not hold the capacity to configure their functioning.

The table above sets out more detailed information as regards the Group's Cookies and those of the third parties that we use on our website and our microsites.

DURATION OF COOKIES

As regards their duration, the Cookies fall into the following categories:

- Session cookies: are maintained until the end or shortly after terminating a session or closing your browser or whatever the application applied to access the website and the microsites;
- Persistent cookies: stored for more extensive periods of time and hence requiring either action on behalf of the user or the termination of their duration for their respective elimination.

SECURITY, MANAGING AND BLOCKING COOKIES

To ensure the rights of users and the privacy and protection of their data, the website and the microsites provide the opportunity for users to withdraw the consent formerly provided in accepting the Cookies. In order to undertake this, simply click on the "Configure Cookies" button.

The user may also configure their respective browsers to accept and store Cookies on their devices, deactivating the Cookies either partially or totally. Every browser has its own different settings. Generally, these definitions are described on the help menu of the browser. We would therefore recommend their reading. This information explains how to change your Cookie preferences.

We would nevertheless highlight how deactivating the Cookies, whether partially or totally, may affect your navigation on the website and the microsities to the extent this may block certain website services from functioning correctly. There should be consideration of how the AdP website and microsities only deploy a minimum level of cookies by default.

ALTERATIONS TO THE COOKIES POLICY

This Cookies Policy shall occasionally be subject to alterations to reflect ongoing changes to the website.

The Data Controller reserves the right to, at any time and without any prior notification, alter, add, update or eliminate, partially or totally, the present Cookies Policy. Whenever relevant changes take place, the Data Controller shall invite users to read the Policy and review their Cookies options through the “Configure Cookies” function available on the website and the microsities.

We would recommend you periodically review the Cookies Policy so that you remain duly updated and informed about this and other policies.

In case of any doubts about the management of Cookies on this website and the microsities, we may be contacted via the email address dpo@adp.pt
